Leadership Author & Speaker | Consultant

Technical experts and emerging leaders can become EXCEPTIONAL leaders – with Eva Doyle’s practical guidance

Professionals who step into a leadership role often feel inadequate, frustrated, and discouraged. How can technical experts and emerging leaders develop the skills to become:

- A leader who is truly effective?
- A leader who listens to the ideas of others?
- A leader who has gained the influence to get things done?

Transforming from technical expert or emerging leader into an exceptional leader is a seismic shift. You need real-world insights and practical strategies.

That’s why so many organizations turn to Eva Doyle, MBA. Known as an “informative and witty” leadership keynote speaker, Eva shares leadership skills, spiced with humor and inspiration, to help audience members make that seismic shift. They gain more control, more influence, and more contribution – while the organization gains energized, highly productive leaders and teams.

KEYNOTES

Imagine the Possibilities: Develop Your Leadership Skills so You have More Control, More Influence, More Contribution

How much more could we achieve if we had exceptional leadership at all levels in the technological realm in every organization? What could we accomplish if every leader knew how to nurture people – and their ideas? Packed with practical advice, this inspiring presentation is perfect for opening/closing keynotes and lunch/dinner keynotes.

Making the Identity Shift: How to Transition from Technical Expert to Exceptional Leader

To gain influence in their organization, new leaders must master the ability to view themselves as a leader. The keys to making this seismic shift in mindset are gaining a clear perspective of the leadership role and being willing to learn new behaviors. In this insightful keynote, technical experts and emerging leaders get real-world advice and practical strategies to become exceptional leaders.

The Three L’s of Leadership: Real-World Learnings for Technical Experts and Emerging Leaders

What are the most essential skills of leadership? Liking, Listening, and Learning. Leaders must like the people they lead; this includes clearly understanding each individual’s strength and weakness. They must listen attentively, without becoming a therapist! And leaders must be willing to keep learning. In this insightful – and surprisingly humorous – discussion, technical experts and emerging leaders get practical guidance to become more effective leaders.

Meet

This witty, down-to-earth leadership speaker offers experience that spans the globe.

Leadership speaker and author Eva Doyle transforms technical experts into exceptional leaders. During her 30 years of corporate and government experience – including 20+ years in leadership roles – Eva watched the chaos as technical experts and accomplished professionals struggled to become effective leaders who had respect and influence.

She knew there was a better way. That's why she wrote the book, The Reluctant Leader: From Technical Expert to Human Expert, which offers practical guidance for emerging leaders to develop the leadership skills they need.

Eva shares inspiring, often humorous real-life stories while offering proven strategies to become an exceptional leader.

In her book and keynote presentations, Eva addresses two critical areas. First, new managers need to shift into a new identity – they need to view themselves as leaders and take steps to gain influence to get the job done. Next, they need guidance to develop day-to-day leadership skills, including what to do when an employee cries!

In her varied career, Eva has worked for a commercial bank, a software company, and a highly technical agency of the Department of Defense. As a leader in organizations large and small, Eva has been responsible for multi-million dollar budgets and a 100-person staff.

Eva holds an MBA from the University of Maryland Smith School of Business and a BA from the University of Tennessee, where she graduated Phi Beta Kappa with highest honors. In a career that spanned the globe, Eva has lived in Germany, Australia, the UK, and the US. Eva is functional in spoken and written German and has "traveler" language skills for Russian, French, Spanish, Italian, and a smattering of Czech.
